

Relay Runner Instructions

Timing Tag:

- Each leg of the relay will be timed. For this, each team will be given one (1) baton with a timing chip inside. Runner should hold baton in hand as they run. The runner must cross over the timing pad near each relay exchange zone, and hand it off the baton to the next runner. The next runner should hold onto baton before proceeding to the next exchange zone.
- The timing computer can only read a chip that passes within four feet of the timing pad. Failure to pass the chip within a four foot or less distance of the timing pad could result in the runner not being timed for his/her leg or the team not being timed for the team relay.
- NOTE: The last runner of each team must carry the timing baton for scoring the overall team finishing time.

- Shuttle buses will return near the Finish with relay runners who have completed their leg once a bus is full (or the last relay runner has completed the leg). Returning runners will be dropped off at Shelby Street and Witherspoon which is a couple blocks from the finish line. The race cannot guarantee that relay runners from the third and fourth exchange zones will be returned in time to meet fellow team members for a team run in to the finish. If runners wish to return sooner than the bus is scheduled they will need to make their own transportation arrangements.

Personal Gear:

- It is up to each team to figure out how to pass on sweats and personal items. As with all Marathon and miniMarathon runners, all teams may check in bags at the start of the race. These items will be available at the finish of the race as you exit the finish line area. DO NOT LEAVE PERSONAL ITEMS AT THE RELAY EXCHANGES, WE HAVE NO WAY OF INSURING THEIR SECURITY AND WILL NOT ASSUME ANY LIABILITY.
